First Seminar Electives 10:50am

Ngātahi Room

Homelessness and the Standard of Housing

Panel

Campbell Roberts

Salvation Army Social and Parliamentary Policy Unit

John Sax

Executive Director, Southpark Corp

Justin Duckworth

Anglican Bishop of Wellington

Prof Innes Asher

Paediatrics, University of Auckland; Child Poverty Action Group

Families living in cars or garages are becoming too common as inequality in New Zealand grows. How do we deal with the social fallout? Our panel includes practitioners and policy activists giving insights into the issues: from the personal challenge right up to policy options.

Whakapono Room

Reconciliation: Prickles and Pounamu

Hannah Haiu

Parenting Place

Alistair Reese

Chair: Karuwaha Trust

How do people's hearts and minds transform amid the brokenness of the world? Through storytelling, and an interactive conversation on bi-culturalism, we explore the beauty, hope and assurance that enters the brokenness when relationships of different cultures, genders and generations are founded on a shared trust in the Spirit of God to inspire and guide.

Hohou Rongo Room

Business for Community

Ben Thompson

Thankyou NZ

Emeline Afeaki-Mafile'o

Affirming Works

Tim Shallard

Crave Café; Mosaic Workshop

Business has the capacity to shape economies and bring positive change in communities. More and more businesses are including social and environmental good as a goal in their business activities. Welcome to the new world of social enterprise!

Hear about the successes, limitations, and how you can support 'just' businesses.

Maranga Room

The Experience

Limited to 30 People

Sarah Scott-Webb

and team from Hagar International

The Experience is an interactive human-trafficking simulation involving story, role-playing and participation. You will gain a new level of understanding of the complexities and issues surrounding human trafficking in a powerful way.*

Due to the nature of The Experience, it is suggested that participants acknowledge the mature content and its potential effects and attend knowing they can leave at any time. This elective is not suggested for those under the age of 15.*

Second Seminar Electives 3:00pm

Ngātahi Room

Creativity, Imagination and Justice

Joel McKerrow

Artist and Educator; TEAR Australia

Creativity and artistry are often seen as peripheral in the church – as the frilly bit around the edges of our doctrine – but what if they are not? What if our creative telling of stories, in fact, lies at the very centre of who we are and thus at the centre of what it takes to reshape this world?

Whakapono Room

A Climate of Hope?

Panel

Sponsor: Caritas

Rod Oram

Business Journalist

Prof Jim Salinger

Climate Scientist & IPCC author

Martin de Jong

Caritas

Niamh O'Flynn

350 Aotearoa

The poor will be disproportionately devastated by climate change. What is afoot with our climate, what needs to be done and how are people stepping up? Our speakers will move through the science, how the Pacific is already affected and what is – and is not – being done in business, government and civil society.

Hohou Rongo Room

Living with our Neighbours: Intentional Communities

Dave Tims

Urban Neighbours of Hope

Jenny Duckworth

Ngatiawa River Monastery

Elliot Taylor

Zeal

What is it like to purposely include your neighbours, sharing the love and hope that Jesus offers us?

Our speakers share the stories, challenges and rewards they have experienced through living out the gospel in intentional community, crossing lines of difference to bring people together.

Third Seminar Electives 4:15pm

Ngātahi Room

The Refugee Story

Alice Banfield

Tearfund

Heidi Cripps and friends

Red Cross

Imagine the gut-wrenching fear and unfamiliarity you'd face if forced to flee everything you know, while apart from family. An estimated 65 million displaced people today face this. 21 million of them have become refugees. We'll learn about the global problem and how resettlement works. We'll also hear from one who has walked this journey in New Zealand.

Whakapono Room

Just Activism

Jolyon White

Chch Anglican Diocese Advocacy Enabler

Bex Rillstone and Anneliese Johnston

Park up for Homes

Ever wanted to change the world but didn't know where to start? We'll look at how to identify your cause and give tips on making change happen. How can we provoke change while remaining Christ-like? The team draws on experience from the Park up for Homes campaign and challenging modern day slavery.

Hohou Rongo Room

International Development: Where are we at?

Joy Davidson and Carl Adams

Tearfund

After 70 years of aid, what has been achieved, what mistakes committed and where is hope? Tearfund will trace the history and potential future of international development and the ideas that have driven it. We'll reflect together on the way poorer countries have been perceived and the role of faith in development.
